Mrs. Elizabeth Lees Passes Suddenly

Suffered Heart Attack at 1:30 A.M. Wednesday and Passed Away Two Hours Later; Funeral Friday at 2:30 P.M.

Surprise and sorrow swept the community on Wednesday morning when it became known that a well known and esteemed old citizen in the person of Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Lees, 79 years and 8 months, had passed away after an illness lasting only two hours.

Mrs. Lees had been in her usual health on Tuesday and had helped in the various household duties. That evening she had sat and chatted to her daughter Gladys while the latter started to spring clean following her work in the town hall office where she is secretary-treasurer.

At 1:30 a.m. she called Gladys to her bedside and it was found she was suffering from a heart attack. The doctor was immediately called, but she succumbed to the attack within two hours.

Born at Neathstobey, South Wales, of Cornish parentage, she grew up at Ashton-Mackersfield, Lancashire. In 1866 she was married to Mr. William Lees at Ashton-Mackersfield.

In 1907 the family came to Canada, settling at Bankhead where Mr. Lees worked at the mine for seven years. In 1912 the family moved to Coleman where the home has been maintained since. In October, 1939, Mr. Lees died.

Surviving are Gladys; Fred, of Vancouver, and two grandchildren. A brother, Albert Bastian, resides at Edmonton.

The funeral will be held on Friday afternoon at 2:30. Service will be held in the United church with Rev. J. McKelvey conducting. Interment will take place in Coleman Union cemetery.

BOARD AND ROOM WANTED BY UNIVERSITY STUDENTS

Local citizens who may wish to rent a vacant room and grant board to one or two young men are directed to the mining companies' advertisement this week. A number of university students are coming to work in Coleman mines for a few months to gain practical mining experience.

Room and board are urgently required for these young men. Citizens who can aid are asked to leave their names at International office.

NEW TRAFFIC BUTTON SYSTEM ON MAIN STREET

A new traffic button system has been inaugurated on main street. The button which lay in the centre of the intersection near the post office has been taken out. Four buttons have been laid down. One between Zak's and the post office, another between the post office and Coleman Cafe, a third between the cafe and Modern Electric and a fourth between Modern Electric and Zak's. The four buttons have eliminated the sharp turn which had to be made around the old button and makes turning at this particular intersection easier.

Mrs. John Lilya Passed Away On Sunday Evening

Came Here With Family In 1914; Funeral Held On Wednesday Afternoon; Interment In Union Cemetery.

The death occurred to a Coleman old-timer on Sunday evening at approximately 9:30 when Mrs. John Lilya, 68, passed away at her East Coleman home following an illness of two weeks.

Born on August 27, 1878, at Lahti, Finland, she grew into young womanhood in that town and in 1900 married John Lilya, also a native of Lahti. Their family of three, Impi, now Mrs. C. Huffman, Alex. and Victor, were all born in Finland and now reside in Coleman. Mr. Lilya came to Coleman in the fall of 1913 and in January, 1914 was joined by Mrs. Lilya and family.

Deceased derived great enjoyment from her home life and in addition took keen interest in gardening spending many hours during the growing season with her plants.

Surviving are her husband, daughter, Mrs. Huffman, and two sons, Alex. and Victor, three grandchildren and a brother, Alex. Altonen, of New Zealand.

The funeral was held at 3 p.m. Wednesday from the family residence with the Rev. Jas. McKelvey, United church minister from Blairmore, conducting. Interment took place in Coleman union cemetery.

Cardston Drama Club Wins Lions Drama Festival; Mrs. Purvis And Bill Jensen Win Individual Honors

Sell-Out Crowds Witness Both Nights Of Festival; Adjudicator Declares Quality Of Festival High; Coleman Players Only Two Points Behind Winners.

Coleman Lions Club Drama Festival committee scored another smashing success as the fifth annual festival played to sell-out audiences making it necessary to re-enact the plays on Monday evening to take care of the overflow audience which had been unable to secure seats for the Thursday and Friday evening performances. Ticket sale for Thursday and Friday was completely exhausted on Tuesday afternoon. Adjudicator Sidney Risk, Director, Dept. of Fine Arts, University of Alberta, was present for his second consecutive adjudication of the local festival.

Lion President Sidney Short prior to the opening of the program on Thursday evening and again on Friday evening thanked the citizens of the Pass for their splendid support to the festival by their attendance and bade welcome to the out-of-town artists who had been practicing hard for many weeks in preparation for the festival. He thanked those organizations who had loaned their facilities to aid the committee.

Three plays were presented on Thursday evening. The Blairmore Players, making their first appearance at the festival, opened the program with a spirited performance of Anton Chekov's famous comedy, "Marriage Proposal." Mr. Risk, in his adjudication, stated that he would like to have seen more vigorous action in keeping with the Russian temperament and violent emotions. However the speed of the play was perfect as far as audience reaction was concerned. Donald MacPherson, as the father, Helel Slopek, as the daughter, and Frank Fleming as the pain-wracked suitor, made an excellent team. Mrs. C. E. Fleming directed.

The Coleman Drama Club followed with a convincing performance of an American folk play "Nancy Hanks, Bondswoman," a dramatic arrangement of a widely believed legend concerning the birth of Abraham Lincoln. An interesting and very successful experiment in this play was the use of background music on the violin by Peter Bakaj to intensify the mood of the play. Mrs. Jim Allan Jr. played the title role and turned in a very fine performance. Jim Allan turned in a sterling performance as Abraham Enloe. Eileen Fry making her first dramatic appearance gave an earnest portrayal of Mrs. Enloe. Lena Snider and Ken Short as Lemmer and Tom Lincoln showed signs of developing dramatic ability.

The last number of the evening was a comedy of the Blue Ridge Mountains by Beverly Hamer called "Funeral Flowers For The Bride," presented by The Cardston Drama Club. Bill Jensen as Zeke was perfectly cast, while Muriel Neubauer as Ruby was one of the most convincing of naughty girls seen on the Coleman stage for some time. Mildred Stutz played Sadie Johnson, the simple minded neighbor woman delightfully. Grant Glenn was the much needed preacher around whom the denouement revolved. Adjudicator Risk stated that some of the finest individual acting of the night took place in this play, although they were not quite as strong as a team.

On Friday evening two plays were on the program.

The Coleman players were sent to advantage in "The Giant's Stair" by Wilbur Daniel Steele. The scene was set on a farm on the upper of several benches constituting The Giant's Stair in a mountain valley. Brunt of the play fell on the shoulders of Mrs. Weatherburn, Edith Hayson; Tili, her sister, Mrs. Purvis and Sheriff Bone, Arthur Graham. Steve Ondrus as Mr. Cantpole, made his entrance as the play reached its climax. In his adjudication Mr. Risk commended the players on their relationship to each other on the stage and remarked that it was good. The production he gave the full twenty points. He stated that the pitch had not been built up sufficiently, and that it lacked the speed which it required. He criticized each player in turn showing good and weak points and where points had been lost. The play was directed by Mrs. Louise Graham.

Canada And The Food Crisis

IT IS REGRETTABLE that the end of the war did not also bring the end of privation and suffering among the people of the world. On the contrary, in all but a few fortunate countries, of which Canada is one, the people are faced with food shortages which are expected to be more serious than any experienced during the war. Crop failures in many parts of the world, the breakdown of transportation facilities due to the war, and shortage of shipping space in the past, have all contributed to the alarming conditions which now exist in respect to the world food supply. Wheat and cereals are among the foods most urgently needed at the present time, and this need will continue to be urgent at least during the next four or five months or until the 1946 cereal crop is harvested.

Four Countries Able To Export

Officials of the United Nations' Relief and Rehabilitation Administration have reported that only four countries are at present in a position to export wheat. These countries are Canada, the United States, Australia and Argentina. As one of those countries which are able to help in relieving the present food crisis, Canada faces a great responsibility at this time. A program has already been announced for making available as much wheat as possible for export during the next few months. This program includes a ten per cent. reduction in the amount of wheat released for domestic milling on the basis of the amount used for that purpose in 1945, and a fifty per cent. reduction in wheat for distilling, also on the 1945 basis. In addition, priority will be given for transport of wheat for export, and numerous other measures have been provided for increasing the amount of wheat which can be sent from Canada to those countries whose need is now great.

Public Is Urged To Co-operate

Canadian farmers are being urged to plan their production to yield a maximum amount of food-stuffs not only this year, but for the next three or four years, for it is expected that shortages will continue for some time. The people have been asked to contribute to the success of the plan to export more food, by reducing their food consumption wherever possible and by eliminating waste, particularly in the use of wheat products. We are reminded that we have suffered no real hardship in regard to food in this country. Only a few articles have been rationed and this has been in most cases for the purpose of ensuring fair distribution rather than because of acute shortage. The people of Britain have accepted repeated cuts in an already meagre diet in order to do what they can to relieve the world food situation, and there is no doubt but that the people of Canada will co-operate willingly to make as large a contribution as possible to ease what Prime Minister King has called the "urgent and pressing need" of those in other countries.

Bid For Trade

Britain Is Out To Capture Market For Alarm Clocks

In Britain's new drive for export trade, nearly one hundred factories have been switched from specialized war production to alarm clocks. The idea is to capture the hungry market once dominated by Germany and Japan, and worth about three hundred million dollars annually. Regardless of anything else, we can be confident of one thing: The British clocks will work. And that could not be said of a lot of the junk piled off on us by the former market jobbers.

Educated Chinese

Speak Flawless English Without Any Trace Of An Accent

An interesting fact about the opening of the United Nations Organization, second session in New York, is that the chairman is a Chinese, Dr. Quo-Tai-Chi.

Of course, Dr. Quo will speak in English. All the Chinese top officials and nearly all the junior members of embassies and consulates in English-speaking countries speak English. It is a striking fact that when the Chinese Ambassadors in Washington or Ottawa correspond with their fellow-countrymen in the United States or Canada, they exchange letters in English—not, as might be expected, in Chinese.

The "educated" Chinese speak flawless English, and they do so without a trace of "accent" common to most foreigners. Perhaps the only one who does so is Dr. Hsieh himself, who, although possessing a mastery of English that an American or Canadian professor might envy, does so with a delightful Scottish "burr". That is due to the fact that when he was a small boy his first tutor was a Scot. Like all Chinese Dr. Hsieh is a witty speaker, and the New York Sun referred to him on one occasion as a "Chinese Harry Lauder."

Part-Time Workers

Made It Easy To Adjust Factory For Peacetime Production

LONDON.—Shortly before the outbreak of war, a United Kingdom firm, specializing in producing machines for marking laundry linen, placed on the market an apparatus which stamps linen invisible to the eye but can be read only by the laundry worker with the aid of a specially adjusted mercury vapour discharge lamp. Twenty-five workers were employed in this small factory. During the war laundry requirements were forgotten—the firm undertook to make component parts for aircraft. An appeal was issued for part-time workers and soon 1,300 local people had responded to the call; during the ensuing years 28,000,000 component parts were processed. "If those women hadn't volunteered to help us," said a manager, "it would have taken our present staff 40 years to do the work." Now the factory has been adjusted to the making of laundry-marking machines again.

American Air Lines Find That Stewardesses Stay Only Short Time

Not without misgivings, the American Airlines graduated ninety flight stewardesses, the largest class ever trained by an American commercial airline in the sixteen years during which stewardesses have been on plane crews. They were schooled in such matters as serving meals, caring for babies, and acrobatics.

The airline's misgivings arose from the fact that stewardesses, having been chosen partly for their personable appearance, don't stay long in the job. The company pleaded with the ninety graduates to marry a while before marrying passengers or pilots. The average stewardess lasts only a year and a half. You get a gold pin if you stick for five years.—New York Herald Tribune.

Chicago Youngsters Struck Beauty Teachers Not Pretty Enough

Among the less serious strikes in this country, says the New York Herald Tribune was one in East Chicago, Ind., involving about a hundred members of the Ilcey Beauty School. They walked out of classes because, according to the strike leader, "We are tired of being taught by old and ugly teachers and want young and pretty ones." The superintendent of schools persuaded the strikers to return. He advised them that the teachers in Ilcey school compared favorably in public with teachers in other East Chicago schools.

SOURCE OF PROTEIN

Experiments Show That Yeast Can Supplant Wheat In Many Ways

One way for American housewives to make up for the 40 per cent. cut in wheat and 20 in fats for the starving peoples overseas, is to add yeast to many of their home-cooked dishes. Experiments showing that this addition of yeast is both palatable and one of the greatest improvements possible in nutrition were presented to the Federal American Society for Experimental Biology by Barnett Sure, head of the Department of Agricultural Chemistry of the University of Arkansas.

He showed by animal feeding that yeasts are one of the finest sources of protein, and furnish better protein than those normally present in the wheat that Americans are asked to give up. The yeasts used for this purpose are both the ordinary sort and "brewer's" yeast.

He said that these yeasts can be used readily to enrich corn bread, rice, meat dishes, soups, especially thick soups and gravies, ketchup, chili, tomato juice, peanut butter, chocolate milk, malted milk, also in bread, muffins and clam chowder. And in cookies, cakes, doughnuts, stews, and cheese dishes. The yeasts used said not to change flavors of the dishes.

These yeast dishes provided in addition the entire vitamin B complex in rich amounts.

Professor Sure proposed a further addition to American diets of more soy beans or soy bean flour. Manchuria and America are the two great soy bean producers of the world. In animal tests Professor Sure reported that soy beans better nutritionally than many of the popular wheat and grain foods.

He said that blending of yeast and soy bean flour with wheat flour should be especially valuable for infants, the dieting of low income groups, whose foods are largely from cereal grains. The soy bean-yeast combination, he declared, should not be expensive.

GARDEN NOTES

Planning Will Help

When space is extremely limited planning is even more vital because it saves room.

In plotting, minimum widths between rows range from 12 inches for narrow things as lettuce, radish, carrots, beets, to 15 inches for beans and spinach, to 18 inches for corn, tomatoes.

Alternate quick-maturing things like radish, lettuce and spinach with slower growing things like corn, tomatoes, vegetables such as Swiss chard, beets, carrots and beans. The first named will be up and used before the latter require all the space.

No Hurry

Old-timers are seldom seen rushing the planting of their gardens. They will tell you there need be no special rush. It is a good thing to get a bit of the garden planned early, but it is foolish to risk the main planting until all danger of frost is over. And in any case if the garden is all planned at once then the labor will all come together, with a feast for a few days followed by a famine.

In the greater part of Canada we can go on planting vegetables and flowers right up to July 1st—indeed in some areas it is possible to plant beans, carrots and beets even later and still get good returns. Experienced gardeners divide their seed into at least three parts and make seasonal sowings about ten days to two weeks apart. For tender things like beans, corn, potatoes, peppers, tomatoes, and so on, timing is gained by rushing the season in any case.

Big Croppers

Where space available for the vegetable garden is very limited, bulky plants like corn, peas, tomatoes, potatoes and other large vegetables create a special problem. Unlike lettuce, spinach, beets, beans, carrots, etc., which can be sited in rows only 15 inches apart if necessary, these other things take up considerably more room. Corn, tomatoes and potatoes need from 18 inches to 2 feet between hills or plants, and if one is to have enough green peas for a meal from one picking then at least 30 feet of row, and preferably 50, will be necessary.

Most small garden operators—those with only a plot 20 feet or so wide by their disposal—usually decide after some experience to abandon potato growing altogether. And the experts agree that they are wise. The first new potatoes right from the garden at the door are a treat, but there are other things that take up less space that are even more satisfying. But the other three vegetables mentioned should not be given up without more consideration. It is absolutely impossible to duplicate the quality of peas or corn right out of the garden. As a matter of fact a distinct change takes place in both vegetables in from two to four hours after picking. The sugars change to starches and that is the reason why ordinary "bought" corn and peas do not compare in sweetness with the same vegetables picked fresh, cooked and ready for eating within an hour of harvesting.

Britain's Future Builders

Plans Made To Train Larger Number Than Before War

The United Kingdom is aiming at training three times as many building apprentices and craftsmen at a time as were trained before the war. This was the objective named by Miss Ellen Wilkinson, Minister of Education, when she spoke at the inauguration of a course where building teachers from London and the home countries met to co-ordinate methods of building education. The pre-war figure for apprentices and craftsmen in training was thirty thousand—the present target is to train 90,000 at a time in Britain's technical colleges and institutes. Junior building schools which had a half of four hundred have now increased this to between five and six thousand.

The method by which the United Kingdom will obtain sufficient building workers for the future with adequate skill is the part-time release in the daytime from study. As Miss Wilkinson said, "work and study will go side-by-side." The Education Minister added that in starting courses of this kind the building industry will be pointing the way to County Colleges—which are an essential part of the provisions of the new Education Act, whose object is the provision of facilities for "sandwich" work and study for pupils above the compulsory school age at least up to the age of eighteen.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN EXPLAINS CLEARLY NEW GLOBAL POLICY UNITED STATES WILL FOLLOW

CHICAGO. President Truman proclaimed a "universal" foreign policy for the United States aimed at stopping "coercion and penetration" of the weak and gaining for powerful peacekeeping military reserves.

Speaking at an Army day celebration in Soldiers' field, where he renewed his appeal for extension of the Selective Service act, unification of the armed forces and a universal training program, the president declared that:

1. One "universal" policy must guide United States relations with every country, "no matter how remote."

2. In return for American recognition of "important interests" of Great Britain and Russia and others in the orient, these countries must respect American interest in peace and security in that area. The United States, he added, "shall expect them to pursue" the same peaceful objectives.

3. The United Nations have a right to insist that the sovereignty and integrity of the countries of the middle east where outside rivalries might "empt into conflict" must not be threatened by coercion or penetration.

4. The United States hopes "for the peaceful settlement of differences which have arisen between colonial people and colonial sovereigns in all areas."

5. The United Nations security council "is fully capable" of settling disputes between any countries of the world, however different their philosophies, traditions and interests. If it respects "the legitimate aspirations and needs" of fellow members.

6. "The United States intends to join with the other sovereign republics of America in a regional pact to provide a common defense against attack."

Using some of the strongest language he has ever employed in discussing the United States' new global foreign policy, Mr. Truman declared its immediate objective "is to support the United Nations to the utmost."

The president said universal training, a year's extension of the draft and unification of the armed forces are the foundation stones which hold the promise of a strong nation.

Brief On Social Security Given To Parliament

OTTAWA. Recommendations looking toward "a national program of social security as a whole" have been placed before Prime Minister King and provincial premiers by the Canadian welfare council, R. E. G. Davis, council director, announced.

The brief, entitled "Dominion-provincial relations and social security," made these recommendations:

1. A plan for contributory old age insurance "extended to cover the whole gainfully employed population."
2. War training to complement unemployment insurance benefits.
3. Extension of the national housing act to a low-rental project.
4. Abolition of "residence rules" for social service benefits.

The brief also criticizes Dominion proposals now before the Dominion-provincial authorities.

The brief said 70 was too high for a pension age and the means test, basis for assistance to persons over 65 would not represent an adequate solution to the problem of the not-so-old group.

It urged a contributory insurance system "to cover the whole gainfully employed population, including farmers and self-employed," and financed jointly by the Dominion and provinces.

The council urged a national conference of provincial and municipal representatives to abolish or modify "residence rules" in connection with the extension of Canadian social services. Objective of such a conference would be "that no person in Canada shall be denied the social services to which he is entitled merely because he has not spent a year or longer in some province or local community."

The brief summed up the goal of any social security program as "a comprehensive national system of social security involving a three-way partnership between the Dominion, the provinces and the local governments, integrated with the work of private agencies."

BEING CONSIDERED

OTTAWA.—State Secretary Martin said the government is considering the proclamation of a Victory Day holiday, VE-day, May 8, or VJ-day, Aug. 14, both are possibilities. It was not known whether the new observance would affect Remembrance Day, Nov. 11.

TAKING NEW JOB

Soil Research Official Will Join UNRRA Mission Going To China

SWIFT CURRENT. — Dr. W. S. Chepil, who has been in charge of soil research at the Dominion experimental station here, has left for Washington, where he will take a short course prior to joining the UNRRA mission leaving for China.

His work with UNRRA will be that of a soil examiner specialist. During the war dykes were often destroyed by the Chinese to let the water break through and hold back the advancing Japanese army. This flooding of the lands has made them unproductive to a large extent and it will be the restoration of their productivity with which Dr. Chepil will be concerned.

According to the specialist it will take at least a year or two to restore the land to its normal productivity.

FOR CITIZENSHIP

Bill Calls For One Year's Residence Instead Of Five

OTTAWA.—Under the government's Canadian Citizenship bill, only one year of residence in Canada, instead of five, will be required for the naturalization of those who served outside of Canada in the Dominion's armed forces during the war, State Secretary Martin announced in the commons.

Mr. Martin made the announcement in moving second reading of the bill, aimed at clarifying the definition of Canadian citizenship. A similar bill reached first reading at the last session of parliament but was dropped because of pressure of other business.

EDMONTON.—The Alaskan division of the air transport command, United States army air forces, has passed out of existence and the U.S. air centre here, with other fields forming the division, has become part of the new continental division.

GIRLS LEARN FLYING—Conversion of the London, Ont., airport to peacetime basis has brought girls and women to the field as student pilots. Isobel Pearson (left), a Saskatchewan girl employed in London as a T.C.A. London girl on the staff of Canadian General Electric, is another solo pilot. During the war thousands of Canadian, English, Australian and New Zealand airmen trained at the airport.

TO BE CORRECT

Abbreviation For New World Organization Is "U.N." Not "U.N.O."

NEW YORK. — Assistant United Nations Secretary General Benjamin Cohen in charge of public relations said that "UN" rather than "UNO" was the correct abbreviation for the new world organization.

"We prefer that newspapers and others use the UN abbreviation instead of 'UNO,'" he said.

He pointed out that throughout the charter the organization is referred to as "The United Nations" or the "organization." Nowhere in the charter is it referred to as United Nations Organization.

CAUSES BIG LOSS

Director Of Dominion Experimental Farms Gives Opinion On Summerfallow

GUELPH, Ont. — Summerfallow, especially as carried out on the prairies, is "one of the worst things ever developed by farmers," Dr. E. S. Archibald, director of Dominion experimental farms, Ottawa, said in an address.

In one year, soil from 12,000,000 acres was moved by wind sufficiently to cut off the crop, chiefly because of lack of organic matter, and summerfallowing which gave the wind a sweep at the soil. Cost of that drifting was estimated at $140,000,000 a year.

ENERGY FROM SUN

Soviet Astronomers Have New Instruments For This Study

MOSCOW. — Academician V. Frenkel, writing in Izvestia, said Soviet astronomers are busy studying atomic energy in the cosmos from new and reconstructed observatories equipped with the newest instruments and apparatus. Astronomers recently have discovered indications that atomic energy is released not only from within the depths of the sun but also from close to its surface, the article said.

SECURITY COUNCIL WAS ALMOST UNANIMOUS IN POSTPONING THE IRANIAN CASE UNTIL MAY 6th

NEW YORK.—Little Iran's protest that Russian officials and troops were interfering with Iranian internal affairs was shelved by the United Nations security council until May 6, with approval of the Iranian representative here.

Thus the council, in its first great test, achieved an almost unanimous conciliation of what threatened to be a serious international dispute which the infant organization was poorly equipped to handle.

Credit for the conciliation went to State Secretary James Byrnes, American delegate, whose proposal to accept Russian assurances and postpone discussion on Iran until May 6 was adopted by nine of the 11 delegates.

Australian delegate, Col. W. R. Hodgson, criticizing the procedure adopted and protesting against secret meetings of the council, abstained. He declared the action would "weaken the authority and prestige" of the council.

Soviet delegate Andrei Gromyko, who walked out of the council March 27 in protest when he requested for a postponement of discussion on Iran was denied, remained absent from the meeting.

Mr. Gromyko's continued absence counted for one vote and the abstention of Australia's W. R. Hodgson for the other.

Mr. Byrnes declared Russia's assurances should be accepted as satisfactory and that by deferring the case now the council could ask reports on it May 6—by which time the Russians should be out of Iran. Council president Quo Tai-Chi of China said he hoped Iran and Russia would settle all their troubles and further discussion unnecessary.

It was Col. Hodgson, fiery, gray diplomat in the best Australian tradition of a minority protester, who asked the final framework to the crisis-laden case.

He said Mr. Gromyko's walkout had "prejudiced the work efficiency and authority of the council," that the decision to defer the case should not have been made until after full investigation, that Iran's complaints were being handled as a political incident rather than a whole vital situation.

He emphatically told his colleagues "this case was a challenge to the security council and in our opinion the council did not meet it."

He hunched over the council table as he spoke in sharp, terse sentences and when the vote was taken he kept his hands firmly on the table.

Throughout the proceedings the Iranian Ambassador Hussein Ala was at the council table and he expressed Iran's acceptance of the Byrnes-sponsored resolution.

It was believed, said the slight, quiet-voiced diplomat, that withdrawal of Russian troops would ease all Iran's problems. At the same time he declared:

"It is understood that the questions of the withdrawal of troops and interference in the affairs of Iran remain on the agenda to be brought up at any time."

As for the council work on the case, he said "Iran has received assurance from the United Nations that it could not have obtained by itself."

He said:

ESTIMATE OF WORLD'S NEED FOR WHEAT IS MUCH GREATER THAN REPORTED LAST MONTH

OTTAWA. — In a survey of the world wheat situation, the Dominion bureau of statistics said that deficit across report the need for approximately 3,400,000 long tons more wheat than the 17,000,000 tons estimated last month.

No change was reported in the estimated world's exportable surplus of up to 12,000,000 long tons.

Failure of the Indian monsoon, droughts which struck France and North Africa, lack of adequate fertilizer supplies and dislocations occasioned by the war took a "terrible toll" of good production in Europe, Asia and Africa last year, the report said.

This, combined with below-average crops in three of the four large exporting countries, inevitably brought about the current shortage. The United States department of agriculture's office of foreign agricultural relations had estimated 1945 world wheat production at 5,200,000,000 bushels, the smallest since 1929 and eight per cent. less than 1944.

Further programs intended to reduce domestic consumption of food stuffs, thereby providing additional exportable supplies, had been announced by both the Canadian and United States governments.

Canada hoped to increase avail-

LABOR CONFERENCE

Mitchell Hopes To Meet Provincial Ministers This Summer

OTTAWA.—Labor Minister Mitchell said he hopes to call a conference with provincial ministers this summer to charter a policy which would be followed when the provinces resume jurisdiction over labor matters.

Mr. Mitchell made the statement to a delegation from the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor, which presented to some members of the cabinet a brief calling for wage increases, reduction in income tax, changes in existing labor legislations and the undertakings of projects to provide employment.

The labor minister spoke before Justice Minister St. Laurent outlined the provisions of the recent $1,250,000,000 Canadian loan to Britain, which he termed the best insurance premium he could think of against depression.

LEAVING GERMANY

Canada's Occupation Force To Be Out By End Of May

OLDENBURG, Germany.—All of the Canadian army occupation force in Germany is expected to leave by the end of May except for 1,500 Ordnance Corps troops who will handle the shipment home of some Canadian army equipment.

Originally it was officially forecast that it would take until mid-summer to withdraw the force but the availability of shipping and excellent co-operation from British authorities likely will enable the movement from here to England of about 20,000 troops to be completed in just over two months.

PREFERS TO STAY OUT

BERN.—Foreign Minister Max Petitpierre told the Swiss parliament that Switzerland would not become a member of the United Nations. "Switzerland will not apply for admission to UNO even if invited to do so as long as our status of permanent neutrality is considered incompatible with certain obligations under the UNO charter of San Francisco," he said.

Cardston Drama

Melling, Mae Dudley as Mrs. Lomax, Elnora D'Amico as Mrs. Greenalgh, Eileen Patterson as Mrs. Ryan, Marion Irwin as Mrs. Yates and Gladys Moren as Rachel Clegg. In his adjudication Mr. Risk stated the actresses failed to reveal the quiet control required by the play. There had been too much contrast in the costumes and that the stage grouping could have been improved. Of Elnora D'Amico he stated she had captured the characteristic of the part. Mrs. Yates he described as having good vitality and good diction. The sincerity of the actresses he described as the best part of the play.

In his over-all adjudication Mr. Risk stated that the plays had been right on top of one another and that he thought highly of the five plays as plays. The quality of the festival he described as high.

The results were, Cardston Drama Club 84 points, The Coleman Players 82, Coleman Drama Club, 75, The Bellevue Players, 72 and Blairmore 70.

Best Actress

Mrs. Polly Purvis

The best actress award was won by Mrs. Polly Purvis with 40 points out of a possible 50. The best supporting actress was Muriel Neubauer, of Cardston one point behind Mrs. Purvis. Bill Jensen was awarded the honor of being the best actor in the festival with 37 points with Arthur Graham being awarded the best supporting male actor role with 36 points.

This is the second successive year Mrs. Purvis has won this high honor.

The awards were made by J. J. McIntyre who congratulated the Lions club on their fifth successful festival, The Lions Shield, given to the winning play was received by director Mrs. Norma Peterson. Beautiful framed pictures of Crows Nest Mountain and the timbered country side leading up to the mountain were presented to the winners of the various classes.

Mr. Gwilym Edwards, secretary of the Alberta Drama League and who was accompanied to Coleman by Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Hobson of Calgary and Mr. G. Stevenson, of Toronto, congratulated the Lions club and Pass public for so successfully sponsoring the festival and stated that they were showing an example to the rest of Alberta.

He called for suitable auditoriums to be built throughout the Dominion as suitable memorials to those who had fallen in freedom's cause. Auditoriums for the young people to equip and experience themselves.

There was to be an International Drama Festival to be held at Victoria August 5 to 10. A Drama Conference would be held after the festival and he expressed the hope that Coleman would be represented. In conclusion he paid warm tribute to the stage crew who had worked so hard yet were never seen by the audience.

Following the presentation of awards by Mr. McIntyre he called upon Adjudicator Risk to come back on the stage, Mr. Risk obliged and to the enjoyment of the packed audience gave a pantomime on two ladies coming into a theatre and the antics one of them went through during the life of the film. Mr. Risk did not utter one word during his pantomime but his facial, head, body and hand expressions had the audience roaring with uncontrolled laughter.

On Saturday night it was "Audience Night" which was a new feature of the festival. Many took advantage to get an explanation of how plays are judged, how stage settings gain marks and how added impetus can be given the acting in a play.

On Monday evening another good crowd attended the four Pass plays which were re-enacted in order to give those unable to secure seats on Thursday and Friday a chance to witness the plays.

HONORED

A very pleasant social evening was spent during which a delightful luncheon was served. During the festivities Mrs. Seaman was presented with a small farewell gift as a token of friendship of her friends present. Mrs. Seaman expressed her thanks for their well wishes and for their gift.

"It's something you girls shouldn't laugh at"

"Mother won't tell me what it cost," said Elaine to Cousin Edna, who was hooking up the exquisite dress. "But it's within the budget, you may be sure. Trust mother for that."

"Budgets sound unromantic, especially on a day like this," Mother admitted. "But we could never have given Elaine such a wedding unless we had budgeted. It's something you girls shouldn't laugh at. Dad and I began budgeting on our wedding trip. We had to... and we just got home with a few cents margin."

"Isn't it an awful bother, though?"

"We'd be more bothered and worried without it. No, it's simple. First, we always set aside the money for Dad's life insurance; that means we have no worries about the future. Then we figure on so much a month for living expenses... and then!... with what's left we can be extravagant. That's the great thing... to feel when you're spending that the essentials and the future are taken care of. Then you can spend with an easy mind."

Budget for essentials first, remembering that one of the greatest essentials is future security... protection against adversity... and peace of mind in your own old age. There can be no substitute for life insurance in any family budget.

Near you, wherever you are, is a neighbour in the life insurance business. Ask him for advice in planning your future. It is good citizenship to own life insurance.

Sports Association To Hold Annual Meeting on Sunday

A great deal of importance is being attached to the forthcoming meeting of Coleman Community Sports Association which is scheduled for Sunday evening in the Community hall at 8 o'clock. Handbills have been distributed throughout town in an effort to get a large turnout.

Once the financial statement has been read and the reports of the chairmen of various committees presented, the question of what to do with the skating rink will be discussed in great detail.

Much study has already been given the problem. Costs of dismantling the present building and rebuilding it alongside the curling club have been secured. Blueprints have also been drafted showing the building in its present location and incorporating a number of other sports facilities as well as creating a larger ice sheet and accommodating a larger number of spectators.

WORLD HAPPENINGS
BRIEFLY TOLD

A block of 32 perforated Canadian stamps issued in 1908 sold by auction in London for £208 (£927).

Prof. H. S. Massey told the Institute of Motor Industry that 10 years would be needed before the application of atomic energy to industry was reached.

Sir Herbert Baker, designer of many of London's most famous buildings, died recently aged 83. His most notable creation was the Bank of England.

Wool production in Canada in 1945 amounted to 19,626,000 pounds, an increase of 347,000 pounds over the 1944 total, the Dominion bureau of statistics reported.

The naval correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph said the next British battleship to be scrapped would almost certainly be the 35,000-ton Rodney, completed in 1925.

Princess Margaret Rose made her first individual public appearance, inspecting a children's club in Bethnal Green, one of London's poorest and most bomb-damaged suburbs.

Every year in Britain, 20,000 persons are killed and nearly 1,000,000 injured in avoidable accidents in industry, in the home and on the roads, the London News Chronicle reported.

A country mansion near Sevenoaks, Kent, Eng., has been presented to the British Legion by Mr. and Mrs. Winston Churchill, to be used as a rehabilitation centre and convalescent home for ex-servicemen.

Canada's second national clothing drive to provide garments for the millions of distressed persons in the war-devastated countries of Europe will be launched June 17 and will continue until the end of that month.

A Necessary Job

Ex-Servicemen Urged To Help Maintain Defensive Forces

Responsibility to educate the Canadian people to the need of maintaining peacetime forces lies with those who have been in Canada's fighting services, said Brig. G. A. H. Trueman, C.B.E., district officer commanding, M.D. 12.

Brig. Trueman said he was a great believer in associations of interested persons to support a campaign to recruit and maintain reserve forces of the navy, army and air force.

Organizations such as United Service Institutes could not only be useful in keeping alive the ties of friendship formed during the war but could also contribute toward educating the Canadian people to the necessity of maintaining defensive forces, he said.

The atomic bomb and other scientific advances may bring about revolutionary changes in the fighting organizations but until more is known of changes that will have to be made, a defence organization will have to be maintained to bridge the gap. Canada is bridging the gap by the setting up of five commands for a reserve army, each of which will be responsible for a division. The core of this system will be an active force from which personnel will be drawn to train the reserve forces.

The lesson that science had taught during the war is that no one anywhere can afford to be an isolationist. There will not be time to prepare in the future, as there has been in the past, Brig. Trueman declared. Every useful means should be employed to educate Canadians on the responsibility of doing what each can do to maintain the reserve forces of the various services up to strength.

Were Very Helpful

German Scientists Made Mistake By Publishing Their Discoveries

German scientists inadvertently helped the Allies win the war. They even chipped in with helpful hints on the atomic bomb.

These scientists published their theories and discoveries in books and magazines intended only for German eyes. But hundreds of valuable treatises were slipped out of the fetherland and published.

Oscar Mollari of the alien property custodian's office says "German studies in nuclear physics were especially helpful while we were working on the atomic bomb."

The Germans were trying to ferret information out of the U.S. and Britain, too, but Mr. Mollari doesn't think they had much luck. Allied scientists had decided on voluntary censorship, and stopped publishing their discoveries.

The Germans knew the Allies were pumping out a lot of German information. Goebbels himself once got so excited about it that he squeaked: "Intellectual thievery!"

A MIGHTY FORCE

The Montreal Star says Mr. Bracken's argument is that now, as never before, Canada must stand firmly at Britain's side. The three great powers in the world today are not Great Britain, the United States and the Soviet Union, but the British Commonwealth, the United States and the Soviet Union. And while the Commonwealth stands as one, it remains, as ever, a mighty force for peace and order in an explosive world. 2667

Famous London Home

Was Acquired By Old Duke Of Wellington Century Ago

One of the sights of Old London noticed is the Piccadilly residence of the old Duke of Wellington. The famous British general acquired it more than a hundred years ago. It is sometimes called "No. 1 London". It is the first house in the famous street counting from the west end. On one side it overlooks the Green Park and Piccadilly and on the other Rotten Row and Hyde Park. The position is ideal and the site of old-fashioned and would cost much for modernization. Now it is strange to read that the present Duke of Wellington wants to sell Apsley House and has offered it to the government. It seems to be going begging. For when it was given to the Great Duke the Crown reserved the right to forbid the erection of any other house or houses on the same site. Many of the West End clubs would like the site to replace structures destroyed in the blitzes but for this drawback.

Apsley House is part of the history of that end of London. The site was originally donated by George II to an old soldier in order that he might build a hut and sell his apples. That was quite a royal commission to war veterans of these bad old days. Lots and lots of war veterans had to beg for bread in Great Britain after the earlier wars. The fine site was chosen by the Duke of Wellington when he had great acclaim from the people and was prime minister. He was already an Irish baron by heritage. Then his soldierly mind and short-sightedness in politics led him to antagonize the masses and they assailed their former hero. A mob attack upon Apsley caused the duke to have erected the unimpressive high fence around Apsley House. The fence rather obscured the old-fashioned London home of the Wellingtons thereafter on one of the finest sights in the British capital. Its future may be more prosaic but its disposal will need legislation yet. Brandon Sun.

Unique Paint Job

Was Done On Liner Queen Elizabeth During The War

Details of a 10-ton paint job done at Esquimalt, B.C., on the giant British Liner Queen Elizabeth have been recalled by Canadian Paint and Varnish Magazine after a long war-imposed blackout.

The huge paint job, one of the most unique in the history of painting in Canada, was carried out in 1942 when the ocean queen was undergoing conversion into a troop transport at Esquimalt. Twenty-four dozen special 4½ inch brushes as well as a number of other types of brushes, worth $4,000 in all, were used in completing the job.

The 20,000 pounds of paint used was vital to protection of the ship in two ways: as camouflage in dangerous seas, and as an enemy of the rust and corrosion which eventually would have brought about a breakdown in the vessel's operation. St. Thomas Times-Journal.

NEW TYPE ORGAN

A London firm is building a new type of electric organ which is claimed to be far superior to any foreign make. The organ—a standard practice two-manual type—plugs in to the mains. Without pipes or wind it is self-contained, except for loudspeaker units comprising a flat aluminium diaphragm of special design. The cost is under one thousand pounds compared with two thousand pounds upward for a similar pipe organ.

Tired of waiting for a house, V. H. Hobbs of Exeter, Devon, England, has purchased a 105-foot railway handcar for his family. When converted, it will contain a bath, hot and cold water and electric light.

Paganry Is Gone

But Quaint Old Customs Are Being Revived In London

Bit by bit London's quaint old customs, suspended during the war, are coming back. Much of the paganism is gone, some of it never to return, and many ceremonies are makeshift and improvised, but the old ghosts can rest content that practices they founded are not forgotten.

Thus it is that one can see, perhaps, a procession of respectably clad businessmen shuffling through the streets.

It may be the Livermen of the Worshipful Company of Stationers emerging from their smoked and battered home close to St. Paul's Cathedral, to attend an Ash Wednesday service as they have done almost every year since 1612.

In that year a city of London alderman, John Morton, died and left to the Stationers' Company £150 ($375) as a fund to provide cakes and ale every Ash Wednesday to Livermen of the company. His money was invested in a City property destroyed in the blitz.

But the custom will go on. The Livermen's colorful gowns, scarlet hoods and tudor caps were nearly all destroyed during air raids, but members of this wealthy guild walk proudly in a tradition which and its founding in 1556, when the company was incorporated.

Members who didn't attend the church service and don't want to leave their businesses and appear in person can send around a representative to collect their cakes, which are wrapped in a neat parcel.

For many it may take years and even then much of the ancient regalia will be lacking, destroyed in raids which levelled so many of the old guild halls. But the old customs will live on, perhaps with new ones to commemorate another survival.

NO SHORTAGE SEEN

Ontario's Salt Beds Could Supply The World For Years

The following is an editorial taken from the Kitchener Record: Although there was a time in the recent war when a salt shortage threatened in Canada, it was not due to a lack of salt, but rather to much greater use of salt for war purposes. An authority on this country's salt resources states that beneath the area of Ontario lying between Goderick and Amherstburg, there is sufficient salt to meet the needs of all mankind for 80,000 years. One can detect a slight touch of envy when the Moose Jaw Times-Herald quips: "You can put a little salt on that if you suspect that Ontario is doing a little boasting."

However, our western contemporary admits it is nice to know that "if you are superstitious and have the habit of throwing salt over your left shoulder to avert bad luck or insure good luck, you can go on with the practice and the salt will never be missed. It will also be possible for adults with a twinkle in their eyes to suggest that the 'young idea' put a little salt on a robin's tail and then be able to catch it. That pinch of salt is not going to be missed either."

The salt beds underlying Ontario are 1,000 feet in thickness and extend for what is said to be 3,000 square miles. The modern method of mining the salt is to bore a hole into the salt bed, pump water in and the brine out, and then the brine is refined and the modern evaporator produces a salt of uniform small grain size.

Many of the old trade routes of the world were created for traffic in salt. The economic importance of salt is further indicated by the almost universal prevalence in ancient and medieval times of salt taxes. The habitual use of salt is intimately connected with the advance of man from nomadic life to the agricultural life. It has been used as a medium of exchange from the time of the Mongol emperors and even today in Abyssinia and certain other parts of Africa and also in the Tibet and adjoining areas it is used as money.

Many Food Wasters

Average Canadian Has Always Had Enough And To Spare

We are essentially a nation of wasters when it comes to the consumption of food. It has been often and truly said that a starving nation could live well from our garbage cans. It is a common sight to see a Canadian child push his meal away because it isn't exactly to his taste.

Spilled milk grows up to be spoiled women who waste wantonly rather than do their housework carefully. Spoiled boys grow into spoiled men who cannot conceive of any reason they cannot have all the liquor they want at any given time. Meals in restaurants and hotels are partly consumed because they aren't always perfect to the taste of the customer. —Vancouver News-Herald.

ANTI- PASTEURIZATION ARGUMENTS NOT SOUND SAYS HEALTH LEAGUE

Opponents of the principle of pasteurizing milk to make it safe for human consumption have made much of "natural milk"—a term which is basically unsound when it is applied to cow's milk that is being used for human consumption, states the Health League of Canada which at present is engaged in a Dominion-wide campaign to obtain provincial legislation calling for compulsory pasteurization. Ontario is the only province at present with such a law—a law which has resulted in drastic reduction of milk-borne diseases in that province.

Pasteurization is a simple, harmless, effective additional safeguard which should be insisted on over and above all sanitary precautions. To be completely safe, milk must come from healthy animals, it must be cleanly handled, and it must be pasteurized.

The argument that clean milk need not be pasteurized doesn't hold because, while clean milk is essential from a sanitary point of view, even it can carry germs if it is unpasteurized. True, clean milk safeguards health to a certain extent in that from it is eliminated much disease-carrying dirt. However, it is not dependably safe.

There is no evidence to support the argument that pasteurization destroys any food element of which milk has an adequate supply. Properly carried out, pasteurizing does not injuriously affect the taste of milk or the separation of the cream. Studies carried out on large numbers of children have shown that those who are fed on pasteurized milk thrive just as well as those to whom raw milk is given.

Once again, the Health League wishes to emphasize that Canadians do not have to drink disease-carrying raw milk. All milk can be made safe through pasteurization.

If the commercially pasteurized product is unavailable to them, Canadians can make their milk safe themselves. The Health League of Canada, 111 Avenue Road, Toronto 5, Ontario, can supply details of easy home methods.

Radio More Common Than Bath
Tubs In U.S. Houses

The Winton, Ont., Echo, says: Listening to a quiz program on the radio the other night the master-of-ceremonies asked the contestant whether bath tubs or radios were more common in houses in the United States. The contestant answered correctly by saying "Radios".

It seems a logical answer but hardly feasible. However, taken locally we'd venture a guess that two-fifths of local homes are without the convenience of a bath tub, while radios are in operation in nine out of ten local homes. Further comment withheld.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

RABBIT FOOT LUCK

By DON. CAMERON SHAFER

Copyright
Wheeler Newspaper Syndicate

BEFORE Jake left the old gray farmhouse, where he lived alone, on this carefully planned mission of death, he knew that, with everything worked out to the last little detail, all he needed was an extra bit of good luck. Not that he worried about this, being an ignorant and superstitious man who believed that good luck could be propitiated by certain charms and that bad luck could be kept from following one by simple tricks of magic. Before he started out, with his double-gun under his left arm, he made certain that he carried his lucky stone and that the lucky silver cross, worn by his father before him for similar reasons, was suspended from his neck by a strong cord. He lifted up a flat stone, spat on the underside, and replaced it carefully.

"If only I had me a rabbit foot," living so long alone he talked alone to himself, "then I would be all set!" Fortunately this was something easily remedied. His lethal way would take him through briar patches where cotton-tails abounded. And shooting rabbits was something Jake enjoyed. He killed a pair, in season and out, and, not content with this, he stoned snakes and shot hawks and woodchucks for amusement.

Nevertheless he was a very competent and successful big game hunter, killing his share of deer and bear, and he had hunted the biggest game of all—man. In the first World War, in the darkness of No-Man's-Land, night after night, he had hunted most successfully with all the skill and craft of his kind.

A tall gangling man, unshaven, none too clean, carrying a good double-barreled gun under his left arm, Jake hurried across the hill pasture and up an old woodland toward Honey Hollow. In right side pocket of his old coat was a new empty shell he had picked up in the woods a few days before for this very occasion. Not a chance of those smart city detectives he had read about identifying it with his gun. This was Saturday afternoon and the woods would be full of strange hunters from nearby towns and more distant places. Jake considered it his good luck that hunting accidents were usually common this fall. Already a hunter had been killed by a companion and another seriously wounded.

This was the afternoon Chris Vrooman, his neighbor, enjoyed being afield with gun and setters every week during the hunting season. When the thing was done, Jake decided grimly, he would get rid of those dogs.

"I never liked dogs anyway!" Chris and Sarah Vrooman lived very peacefully and happily on an adjoining farm. They were hard working farmer folk and consequently, they had a little money in the bank, besides a well stocked farm. Jake was most friendly with the Vroomans, visiting there as often as he could. Even though he neglected his own farm, he helped Chris during harvest, or whenever an extra hand was needed. No one suspected, Chris and Sarah least of all, that she was the reason why he came so often and stayed so long, starting from the day, now long past, when Jake entered the Vrooman farmhouse to find Sarah in her own husband's arms.

That was the start . . . Jake attributed Chris' success in life to having a strong, healthy and good looking woman like Sarah to help him. He reasoned that, with Chris out of the way, he could have this woman, who would then be alone in the world, the farm and the money in the bank, which he thought was much more than it really was. For years, while this obsession grew within his envious brain, Jake had hoped that something would happen to Chris, who was not only the happiest man in the township, but apparently the healthiest one as well. Last night Jake had decided that he would wait no longer. This day something would happen to Chris.

As Jake progressed up the hill he could hear distant shooting along the wooded heights. This was exactly what he expected and desired. The more shooting the better for his deadly purpose. From the top of Laurel Hill he saw Chris in the distance, with his dogs to heel, crossing the bushy cover along the slope of a woodlot. By now Jake knew Chris' hunting habits so well that he could intercept him unobserved near the outlet of a little muddy forest pond where the dogs often picked up a few flight woodcock. Guns were booming on the forested heights. Soon he recognized the sharp crack of Chris' little gauge.

"This is one day, when the birds will be lucky!" grimly to himself.

Topping a low ridge, well covered with small hemlocks, a big buck rabbit scuttled from its form, white tail bobbing. Jake's gun flashed to his shoulder—he almost never missed —the rabbit went end over end on a difficult cross shot.

"There's my lucky rabbit foot!"

The rabbit was not dead, thrashing about in the leaves. Jake hurried over and grabbed its ears. The wounded cotton-tail struggled violently, kicking out with long hind legs tipped with strong nails in the only defence a rabbit has. Jake needed both hands to hold and kill it. Placing the double-gun between his knees, the left barrel still loaded and the safety off, he grabbed for the kicking legs with his free hand. One of the long legs thrust far down—a toenail caught the trigger—

Chris' dogs, trailing a grouse, found the body and recognized it. Sharp barking brought Chris. He heard what had happened from the sign and the dead rabbit.

"Jake always thought a rabbit's foot was good luck!" said Chris, startled and a little frightened. "I'll run back home and telephone the coroner. Such foolishness! There isn't any good luck for anyone in a rabbit's foot."

SMILE AWHILE

The owner of the country newspaper went home to dinner, smiling radiantly.

"You must have had some good fortune this morning," greeted his wife.

"Indeed, I did," announced the owner. "Jim Smith, who hasn't paid his subscription for ten years, came in and stopped his paper."

"Did you get that cigar from a friend?"

"I don't know yet."

First Spinner: Is it true that you are going to be married?

Second same: No, but I'm thankful for the rumor.

A robbery had been committed in the village and a detective had been sent to investigate.

"Have you seen any mysterious strangers about here lately?" asked the detective of the old village.

"Yes, sir," replied the old man.

"There was a man 'ere with the circus last week, and he took a pair of rabbits out of my whiskers."

Barber: You say you've been here before? I don't remember your face.

Customer: Probably not—it's all healed up now.

An old colored man was asked if his neighbors were honest.

"Yes, sir," he replied. "Dey certainly an honest."

"But if your neighbors are so honest, why do you have a loaded shotgun near your hen coop?" he was asked.

"Man," said the old chap, "dat's to keep 'em honest!"

The young man was discussing his love affair with a sympathetic friend.

"You say she partially returned your affections?" asked the friend.

"Yes, she sent back all the letters but kept the jewelry."

He was taking the customary test for the Home Guard service, when the instructor asked:

"What is the best way to immobilize your car?"

"Let my wife drive it," came the immediate reply.

"Is the boss in?"

"No; he's gone out for lunch."

"Will he be in after lunch?"

"No, that's what he's gone out after."

A speaker said recently that many statements are made in commercial correspondence which are not taken literally. Such as "We expect to receive your remittance in full settlement by return."

"We were surrounded by natives," related the explorer. "They just uttered savage cries, danced madly and beat the earth with their clubs . . ."

"Sounds like golf," said the bored listener.

EXCEPTIONAL RECORD

Canada Has Exported More Wheat Per Capita Than Other Nations

"In proportion to our population Canada has exported, to meet the needs of the world over the past few years, more food than any other nation," the Prime Minister emphasized (in his statement on the food situation). Canada did this at fair price levels, not at prices which severity conditions might have allowed.

Of wheat alone Canada has exported, in the past three crop years, over one billion bushels, or about a million bushels each working day. Since 1912 Canada has contributed 20,000 tons of wheat monthly to Greece, an amount which kept about half the population of that country alive. In 1943 we contributed 100,000 tons of wheat to relieve famine conditions in India.

Wheat, of course, is only part of the story of food shipments from this country, but it is an impressive part. By the end of July all wheat accumulated in elevators during the war years will have been shipped, there will remain only what may be stored on farms and hope for a good crop this year. In the meantime, states Mr. King, the general food picture throughout the world is "urgent and desperate."—Ottawa Journal.

TAKE PRIDE IN ALBERTA!

It was 1930 ... Two flying pioneers, Wiley Post and Harold Gatty piloted their globe-circling "Winnie Mae" over a very minor yet strategically located airfield. They set it down in a morass of mud that was Edmonton's Municipal Airport. Yet, destined to grow from these muddy runways and from this one small hangar was one of the greatest airfields of the continent--Edmonton Airport--crossroads for the wings of the world.

The present Airport was born in 1920 to serve those early pioneers of aviation who were flying supplies and equipment into our great North. From that date facilities were progressively improved as the North was expanded. Thus, with our declaration of war, followed by the entry of Russia into the conflict, and Pearl Harbor, Edmonton had the perfect setting for the tremendous expansion required to meet the emergency.

82,400 AIRCRAFT HANDLED IN ONE YEAR

Today the field is practically surrounded by mammoth hangars and aircraft repair depots. Covering 750 acres of land, the airport has three miles of concrete runways, 200 feet in width. There is a concrete perimeter track that practically circles the field. During the war years, the heaviest bombers and transport aircraft and the fleetest fighters were stationed or shuttled through Edmonton to Russia and the Orient. In one day 865 aircraft were cleared through; in the single year 1943 a total of 82,400 planes passed through the Edmonton Airport.

EDMONTON ON THE ROUTE TO ORIENT AND MOSCOW

According to aviation authorities, the shortest distance between points in North America and Asia will be over the top of the world. Through the Edmonton Airport, Alberta's place on these great airpaths of the world is assured. Already an American Air Line has permission to operate a passenger and freight service from New York to Manila via Edmonton. The Trans-Canada and the Canadian Pacific Air Lines operate regular schedules out of Edmonton. The Airport is also used by the Royal Canadian Air Force, the Associated Airways, the R.C.M.P., the Imperial Oil and Eldorado Mines. A rough estimate shows that approximately 100 aircraft per day now, either land or take off, from this site of Canada's largest Airport.

PROPHECY COMING TRUE

Indeed, the 16-year-old prophecy of the late Wiley Post is coming true. As he stepped from the "Winnie Mae" at Edmonton on that memorable day in 1930, he said, "This airport is destined to play a prominent part in the construction of an aerial bridge to Asia."

Albertans may well be proud of the outstanding advancement in aviation that has taken place in this great province, and the part we are destined to play in future aviation history.
